A real treat is in store for all who visit Caldwell & Ruff's millinery department. This is in charge of Misses Cummings and Robinson, for whose good taste and politeness, the the hall and this added very much to many who have patronized them in the past can vouch. The display of combined colors is beautiful. A glance around at the stars and stripes will prove that these young ladies possess patriotism as well as good

A noticable feature, though it had to be pointed out to the reporter, of the decorated hats, was the use of military blue. It will afford pleasure to examine their display and to learn the new styles; it will save money to purchase their hats.

MEANS BEATY PROMOTED.

Mr. J. H. Means Beaty, who for several years past has been engaged in the cotton mill business, has just received a thoroughly deserved promotion. At a recent meeting of the board of trustees Mr. Beaty was elected superintendent of the new textile school at Clemson College. DEATH OF JUDE ROBINSON.

A telegram was received in Winnsboro Wednesday announcing the death of Mr. Jude Robinson at the home of his father in Orangeburg County. Mr. Robinson was a nephew of Sheriff Ellison. He was at the time of his death in the employ of the Bell Telephone Company, serving the company as a special agent, and was regarded as a particularly efficient and conscientious young man. He was engaged for some time in improving the Greenpresident, was in the chair. The tol- ville telephone exchange, and the News of that city has the following to say of him:

He was a warm-hearted, affable genial gentleman of a bright, sunny disposition, whom it was a pleasure to know and associate with. The news of his death will be received with sincere regret wherever he was known. An energetic, zealons and conscientious employee, the company loses in his death one of its most valuable and valued men.

Mr. Robinson's death occurred a his home in Roseville, Orangeburg sarvive him.
